Alexandria Gazette.

TUESDAY EVENING, JAN. 11, 1910.

Foreign Geography.
Children of European birth who were old enough to receive some instruction in geography before coming to this country hold opinions in regard to the political divisions of the earth which all the American geographers and the teachers thereof combined cannot uproot. A New York teacher found that out when she tried to impress upon a young Austrian miss that Columbus is the capital of Ohio.

"It is Cincinnati, on the Ohio," reported the Austrian maiden politely, but firmly.

Maps and printed text were produced to prove her error. The pupil was in nowise convinced.

"It wasn't that way in our geography at home," said she. And the next day, to uphold her contention, she brought the geography on which she based her assertion. That book was not a perfect product of the geography maker's art, for it certainly did state that Cincinnati, on the Ohio river, was the capital of Ohio.

"But that is a mistake," said the teacher. Then day after day, when the girl was called upon to recite, the teacher put the question of discord.
"What is the capital of Ohio?" and day after day, at the risk of bad marks, came the positive reply, "Cincinnati, on the Ohio."—New York Press.

Whelks' Eggs.
Natural soap is not heard of very often, but it not only exists, but is highly prized by Jack Tar in the tropics when the purser reports that the ship's supply of soap has given out. Then all hands are sent ashore to gather a supply of "natural soap," which is found on the shore in the shape of whelks' eggs. The whelk is a little shellfish, or marine mollusk, which in Europe is eaten like mussels, cockles, oysters and clams, but in the tropics it is more highly esteemed for the soap it provides in the shape of its eggs. The eggs are found in a light yellowish mass which is composed of some five or six hundred capsules. One fish alone produces millions of these eggs in the course of the year. They are found on the shores of the Atlantic, but are very profuse where sailors take large quantities aboard for use as soap.

Diamond Cut Diamond.
"Patrick H. McCarron," said a Brooklyn lawyer, "knew how to handle men.
He met straightforward men with straightforward methods, and tricky men he bested with wily tricks than their own."

"Once he illustrated his policy to me with a story. He was like, he said, the rich Peter Higgins."

"When Peter was young and gay two friends, being hard up, put up a game on him."

"Peter," they said, "you might pay us that $2 we lent you."

"When did you lend me $2?" said Peter laughingly.

"Why, right before last, when you were drunk," was the reply.

"Oh, yes," said Peter. "I remember now. But, hang it, I paid you back!"

"Paid us back? When?"

"Last night, when you were drunk.
Don't you remember?"

Didn't Lose His Temper.
There was an elderly East Indian colonel whose boast it was that he had a very tranquil disposition that nothing could ruffle. He took up golf, and for a long time his friends failed to notice any disturbance of the colonel's outward calm, but one day, when playing a foursome, he got into a notorious terrible fifteen minutes trying first to find the ball and then to play it out. He tried every club in vain, and at last, glaring like a demon, he smashed them, one after another, across a jagged rock. "What are you doing?" cried the party above. "It's all right!" he snorted. "It's better to break one's clubs than to lose one's temper!" And the caddy gathered up the pieces.

Crushing a Lawyer.
De Wolfe Hopper was once a witness in a suit for slander, and the opposing counsel in the court room said:

"You are an actor, I believe?"
"Yes," replied Hopper.

"Is not that a low calling?"
"I don't know, but it's so much better than my father's that I am rather proud of it."

"What was your father's calling, may I ask?"

"He was a lawyer," said Hopper.

Playing It Down Low.

"I haven't much use for Bithersley," said the proud papa.

"Why?" asked the proud mamma.

"I listened to him for an hour today while he told me about what his boy had said or tried to say, and just as I was about to tell him about ours he left me, saying he had to catch a train."—Baltimore American.

By Main Strength.

They were listening to a piano solo at a club after dinner party.

"I know a girl," she whispered, "who played the piano, and she had only four fingers on one hand."

"You'd think from the way this one is playing," said he, "that she hadn't any."—New York Press.

Insulted.

"Have you lived in this town very long, Miss Sear?"

"Of course not! Do I look old enough to have lived anywhere very long?"

His Obligations.

"I owe Ploeka a call."

"Going there this evening?"

"No. You see—or that isn't all I owe him."—Cleveland Leader.
